

Page o' coordination: Songo

with son clave in left foot

Todd Bishop

www.cruiseshipdrummer.com

www.pxdrummer.com

The image shows eight staves of drum notation, each representing a different drum or cymbal part. The parts are labeled as follows:

- bell (top staff)
- snare/rim click (second staff)
- bass hihat (third staff)

Each staff consists of five horizontal lines representing a measure of music. The notation uses various symbols: vertical strokes (|) for bass, diagonal strokes (slash) for snare, and 'x' marks for hi-hat. A symbol resembling a stylized 'M' with a vertical bar through it is placed above the third staff, likely indicating a specific coordination pattern. The notation is designed to be played with the left foot providing the son clave rhythm.